

BRAND BOOK · V1 · 2026

A family's love, served in a bowl. This book is the single source of truth for how Pho Love looks, sounds, and shows up — from the sign on the door to the next Instagram post. If it isn't in here, it isn't the brand.

01 — THE LOGO

The bowl, the heart, the name

The mark is a bowl of pho with chopsticks and a heart — the heart isn't decoration, it's the brand. The full lockup pairs it with the hand-brushed "Pho Love" wordmark and "Vietnamese Restaurant." Use the full-color lockup on light surfaces, the reversed version on dark or photos.

Rules

- Keep clear space around the logo — at least the height of the bowl
- Use the reversed (white) version on dark or busy backgrounds
- Use the bowl mark alone for profile pictures, the favicon, and the to-go stamp
- Scale the whole lockup proportionally
- Never stretch, squash, or rotate the logo
- Never drop the heart or recolor the bowl outside the approved colorways
- Never place the dark lockup on a dark or red background
- Never add shadows, outlines, or effects

Warm, loving, appetizing

Coral and pink are the warmth; the gradient between them is the signature — used sparingly, like a garnish. Cream and ink carry most of the layout. One accent per view, never a rainbow.

The gradient

The hero moment only — one element per layout

The script signs it, the system runs it

The hand-brushed script lives in the logo. For everything else, a friendly two-font system: Poppins carries the headlines, Inter carries the reading. The heart is the brand's punctuation.

Warm, loving, family-first

First person — "our broth," "my dad," "we love you." Casual and honest, never corporate or salesy. The same voice already on the Instagram, just held to consistently.

- Sounds like: "10+ hours of love in every bowl."
- Sounds like: "Come hungry, leave family."
- Sounds like: "Made with love, served with more."
- Not: "an authentic culinary experience"
- Not: corporate, hype, or chain-restaurant speak

Steam, herbs, and family

Warm, natural-light food photography is the foundation — close, steamy, appetizing. The bowl, the broth pour, the herbs, the chopstick lift, and real moments of the family and the dining room. Shot warm, never cold or clinical.

- Real dishes in warm natural light — close and appetizing
- Hands, steam, the broth pour, herbs being added
- The family and the room — genuine, not staged
- Cold, blue, or heavily filtered photos
- Generic stock food that isn't Pho Love's

The thread through everything

The heart shows up in the logo bowl, in "Made with Love," in the "♥" they sign off with. Make it the connective tissue — a divider, a bullet, a stamp on the to-go bag. White line-art that matches the logo's style.

♥ Heart bullets in menus ♥ Section dividers ♥ "Made with love" stamp

Buttons and surfaces

Pills only, never sharp rectangles. The gradient is the primary button; ink is the secondary; outline for the quiet third option.
